Toxoplasma gondii Antibody, IgA by ELISA, Serum

ARUP test code 2013890

Toxoplasma gondii Ab, IgA, ELISA, Serum See Note Specimen Type Serum Specimen Condition Icteric _____ Test Result Interpretation -------_____ _ _ _ _ _ Toxoplasma IgA ELISA 6.6 Positive* Results of this test are of limited value unless evaluated in the context of results obtained in other tests in the Toxoplasma Serologic Panel. Without results of the other panel tests, interpretation of the significance of this result is unclear. (*)Denotes result outside of reference range. _____ Reference Ranges and Comments _____ If you have questions regarding these results, please contact the laboratory. IgA-ELISA: (adults) negative 0.0-1.4, equivocal 1.5-2.0, positive >=2.1; (infants <6 months) negative 0.0-0.9, positive >=1.0. The IgA-ELISA appears to be a more sensitive test for detection of infection in the fetus and newborn than IgM. Both tests should be performed. If the IgA result on serum obtained within the first days of life is positive, the test should be repeated on serum collected ten days after birth to exclude the possibility that the positive result is due to contamination with maternal antibody. IgA antibodies in adults may persist for months or years following acute infection. IGM-ELISA, IGM-ISAGA, IGA-ELISA, IGE, PCR: These tests were developed and their performance characteristics determined by the Dr. Jack S. Remington Laboratory, Palo Alto Medical Foundation. They have not been cleared or approved by the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA). However, approval by the FDA is not required for use of these tests by our reference laboratory.
